

Dear Sirs,

I would like to ask that Low Power Fm broadcast service not be expanded in a way that would allow LPFM stations to take priority over the current FM translator service. Specifically, It could leave us in the Boise, Idaho area without an Air 1 Radio signal. This is the only Christian station in the area that specifically has a format of both Christian pop and rock that really appeals to many teens in our area (as well as some parents like me). It is such a great alternative to regular rock stations. It is very positive and uplifting. I think it's very worthwhile to have such a positive influence on our teens, so I would ask that you would seriously consider not expanding LPFM service to the extent that Air 1 and other national and regional FM translator services are forced off the air. Sincerely, Sue Oberst
